COLOMBIA BITTER AGAINST US THE ANTI-AMERICAN FEELING

THERE STILL VERY STRONG.

Our New Minister May Have Trouble Restoring Friendly Relations After Mr. Roosevelt's Attack General War Against Peru May Happen Soon.

Some of the friends of James T. Dubois, recently sent down as Minister to Colombia, were pointing out yesterday that with the feeling in Colombia against the United States and the fuel supplied by the attack upon the Colombians made in a recent issue of the Outlook by Col Roosevelt, the latter would find his work cut out for him. That there is as trong feeling against the United States among the Colombians was attested by Enrique Lievano, an importer of Bogata, who arrived at the Imperial.

Furthermore Senor Lievano predicted an early mixup among the South American republics in which Peru is apt to find herself pitied against all the countries on the west side of the continent.

We really do a small business with this country, our firm importing not over $20,000 worth of goods a year." said Senor Lievano vesterday, "But business in Colombia is in fine shape and is increasing every day. We have a good, stable Government

But there will probably be war soon against Peru, and it is likely that not only Colombia will be against that country but Chile, Bolivia and Ecuador as well. Each country feels it has a grievance. That of Colombia is largely based on the attack made early last summer men the southern part of Colombia. That place was garrisoned by only fifty-six men, some of whom were down with beri beri. We were not at war, but learning of the condition of the town a force of 500 Peruvians came up the river on a steamer and attacked the place. For three days our men held them back, killing thirty-nine of the Peruvians and sustaining a loss of only five. Then they had to capitulate.

"But the engagement demonstrated that one Colombian soldier was worth ten Peruvians. As a result of the taking of La Pedrera diplomatic relations were broken off and Peru was requested to take her soldiers away from La Pedrera and got a month in which to do it; but July 10 came, when the time expired and her soldiers remained. Now Colombian soldiers are guested to take her soldiers away from La Pedrera and got a month in which to do it; but July 10 came, when the time expired and her soldiers remained. broken off and Peru was requested to take her soldiers away from La Pedrera and got a month in which to do it; but July 19 came, when the time expired, and her soldiers remained. Now Colombia is getting ready. It is proposed to raise 400 men in each district, which would be a small proportion of the number available, and that alone will give us 50,000 soldiers, and that alone ought to be a hig enough army to whip Peru.

but it remained for the New Jersey Congress of Mothers, which held its eleventh annual convention on Friday and yesterday in Plainfield, to tie delegates' badges to paternal coat buttons.

The badges weren't of the type that would permit a man to forget for a little while that he wasn't merely on some civic reception committee. Instead of the conventional strip of satin ribbon shortening of the distance from the capital to Barranquila and Cartagena by building a railway has had considerable results. You can now make the distance up in seven days and down in from five to six days. The population of Bogata has greatly increased in the last few years and is now about 120,000. Coffee, which used to bring only 12 cents there, is now is cents, and sugar is double the price it brought last year, so that more land is being devoted to their cultivation. It will be the largest building in Bogata and 600 men are now of securing a wholesome and happy family engaged upon it and it will be completed in a very short time. A queer case of bigamy came to light in the First Criminal Court in Newark yesterday on the arraignment of Thomas Schwint, 32 years old, on a charge of non-support. Schwint admitted that he married two women who were in court with their children. The charge was present to defend him. Schwint was paroied for the Grand Jury.

Schwint said that he married his first wife in 1888 and this second wife five years later. He said the latter was Josephine Pfister and that she knew he was already married. He said the latter was Josephine of 1902 and called on her while he was the support of the coming the delegates that he believed in the mothers' congress and thought it the school and then she has to do what no one can do without training—wash up the breakfast dishes. WOMAN BOARDER BARRED. GOES BACK TO SANITARIUM.

Mrs. Cook, Owing $50, Seeks Redress and Frederick S. Minnott Wandered Away

A woman of about 50, who said she was afternoon when she returned to her room she had found it locked against her. In the room, she declared, she had clothes and other belongings which she valued at $5,000, but what she was most anxious about were her five Angora cats that were locked inside and which she couldn't get. She wanted them and wanted the police to help her get them. In response to the captain's inquiries she said that she owed $56 to the house, but it was only a temporary embarrassment. Earlier in the evening Policeman Morrison had gone to the house and found Mrs. Cook sitting on the stairs in the ciliway. He had decided that there was nothing for the police to do in the case. Mrs. Cook told Capt. O'Connor that she was from Memohis and that her husband was a travelling man. The captain advised her to seek the aid of the S. P. C. A. in order to get her cats back and go to a Magistrate's court to have her trouble settled.
